Penobscot Medical Association.

THE LATE DR. E. A. JONES.

At the annual meeting of the Penobscot Medical Association, on Tuesday, Dr. W. C. Mason read the following obituary of the late Dr. E. A. Jones, which was prepared by him, as a member of the committee, the other two members of which were [illegible]:

Assembled here to-day, we must miss from our number a familiar presence, a beloved friend, Dr. [illegible] Jones, who passed from earth on Tuesday, the 21st of August, last. [illegible] I am able to realize how great a loss has gone from us. From him I received my first lessons in the science which we cherish as good and noble. [illegible]

Dr. Jones was born at [illegible], Mass., July 24, 18[illegible]. [illegible] Medical College at [illegible], and then entered the Medical Department of Harvard University, from which, later on, he received his degree in 18[illegible]. During the year next following, he was at the Massachusetts General Hospital, as Medical House Officer, one of his colleagues being John C. Dalton, of New York, the celebrated Physiologist. After having performed his hospital service, Dr. Jones [illegible], and then at Martha's Vineyard, where, in 18[illegible], he married Miss [illegible], by whom he had six children, four of whom are now living. [illegible] He was a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Maine Medical Association, and also of that Association at the annual meeting of which we are now gathered. Dr. Jones joined this society in 1870, and until his death, was one of its most valued and active members. He was President of the Association in 1867 and 1871. He held the various offices connected with his profession most creditably and creditably; and those of us who best knew him as a member of this society and as an associate physician, will never forget that, in him, we found a genial, [illegible] of medical science, an excellent and [illegible] physician. [illegible]

A life like his, full of care and labor, was not without its joys and pleasures. He was happy in his home and devotedly attached to his family and the many friends who had been attracted by the consistency and beauty of his daily life. A lover of the beautiful, he gathered much enjoyment from the pleasing scenes which the natural world opened before him, and with reverent spirit "looked through Nature up to Nature's God." To such it is a happy thing to live, for each day reveals new beauty, and as the poet has said, "'tis bliss enough to breathe and be."

While thus in the full enjoyment of life and in the midst of useful and honorable work, when ripe experience had made effort easy and its accomplishment almost an assured success, with [illegible] came upon him. The knowledge and skill by which he had benefited others, availed nothing in the presence of the malady which was sapping the foundations of his own life. [illegible] during all of which he exhibited the most unvarying patience, calmly awaiting the end, which, when it came, was, indeed, as "rest to the weary."

Listening to the voice of our frail human judgment, it would seem that he should have lived longer, that the capacity and opportunity for usefulness might reasonably have been expected to extend over many more years; and, therefore, it seems to us as an untimely close. Viewed from a higher standpoint, was it not rather a life beautifully and thoroughly finished? [illegible]

Whereas, by the death of Dr. [illegible] Jones, this Association [illegible]

Resolved, That we hereby desire to express our [illegible]

Resolved, That with his widow, his children, and with the community, we mourn his loss, [illegible]

Obituary.

MRS. M. B. COUGLE.

Mrs. M. B. Cougle, wife of the late Henry Cougle, formerly of this city, died at the residence of her son, T. B. Cougle, of Cambridge, of congestive chills, living only a few moments after she was taken. She was the mother of six children, all of whom were present to pay their last tribute of respect to a much beloved mother: Mrs. Geo. H. Frost, Mrs. C. A. Barlow, W. B. Cougle and T. B. Cougle, of Cambridge, D. B. and H. F. Cougle, of Chicago. It was a very sad occasion that brought this family together, to witness the last sad rite of a loving and tender mother. Her life was without a blemish, always [illegible] all around, always trusting in her Heavenly Father for salvation. Impressive exercises were held at the home in Cambridge, and also at her daughter's, Mrs. C. A. Barlow.

[illegible] been [illegible] and [illegible] Abbett was to [illegible] him in the United States Senate. [illegible] McPherson wants to retain his seat and Abbett is determined to secure it for himself. It is a pretty fight and there may be some fun before a selection is made.

The [illegible] Prohibition vote in New Jersey did [illegible] increase very much, being only 7,749 [illegible] above the St. John vote in 1884. [illegible] was enough, however, says the Lowell [illegible] to give the electoral vote of the [illegible] to Cleveland. How a third party man can look with equanimity on this result [illegible] is not easy to appreciate. But he does so look upon it, and if it had elected Cleveland, instead of merely giving him New Jersey, he would have been delighted. On the whole, however, third party prohibition may fairly be considered as on the wane.

Mr. Quay sets the Republican majority in the House at five or seven, while the Democrats claim a majority of eight or [illegible]. Wait till the [illegible] roll by [illegible] —Herald.

This is only another illustration of the fact that the editorial and news departments of the Herald seldom agree. On the first page of the same edition containing the above paragraph is the announcement that the "big Democrats give it up—Republican majority in the House conceded." The Herald paragraphist should subscribe or keep abreast of the news in his own columns.

In the course of another week or two the Democrats will begin to comprehend that the people settled several things at the polls on the sixth day of November, one being that Benjamin Harrison is to be the next President and another that he is to have a Republican Congress behind him. As a fitting climax perhaps to the rainbow campaign conducted by the Democrats the party organs, or some of them, had the result in doubt until Gen. Harrison's vote in the Electoral College reaching 239 when they reluctantly abandoned the contest. Attention was next turned to the House, but after sending out a multitude of conflicting claims based on a conspiracy to secure control of that body at any cost, our Democratic friends reach the wise conclusion that the people do not intend to stand any fine work this year. Hence the concession that the Republicans will organize the next House. Chairman Quay says the Republican majority will be five anyway and possibly nine.

How the Cities have Grown

[From the Philadelphia Record.]

Presidential elections always pull out a full vote, and the vote cast in the leading cities of the country last week can be taken as an indication of the relative growth of these cities. New York, with its [illegible] votes for President, leads all the other cities, with Philadelphia and her [illegible] votes a good second. These figures indicate a population of over one and a half million people for New York and show that Philadelphia has passed the [illegible] mark. Brooklyn and Chicago are pressing this city, but they are nearly a quarter of a million behind us. Boston shows the smallest percentage of increase of any of the cities. The following table gives the total number of votes cast in each of seven leading cities for President at the recent election.

AT HARRISON'S HOME.

A Pleasant Reception to his Old Regiment.

They Will Attend the General's Inauguration.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov 17. A reception was given President-elect Harrison and wife last night by the survivors of his old regiment, the 70th Indiana. It occurred at Wright's Hall and was attended by over 300 of the survivors with their wives and daughters. It was a brilliant event. No speeches were made, the General and Mrs. Harrison passing the time socially for two hours among their local friends. The regiment has taken steps to accompany the General on the occasion of his inauguration.

A Call from a Former Confederate.

Among those who called upon President-elect Harrison yesterday was General Reuben R. Davis, of Aberdeen, Miss., who is a cousin of Jefferson Davis, who was formerly a Brigadier in the Confederate army, but is now an ardent Republican.

WEST VIRGINIA.

[illegible]

Washington, Nov 18 [illegible], Chairman of the Democratic State Committee of West Virginia, has sent the following to the Post from Wheeling: Official returns from the state are sufficiently ascertained to warrant the election of Judge A. B. Fleming, Democratic candidate for Governor, by a small but sure majority. The rest of the State ticket is elected by larger majorities. The Legislature will stand on joint ballot 46 Democrats, 44 Republicans and one Union Labor

NEW YORK.

The Official Result of the Vote

New York, Nov 17 The vote of the State of New York has been officially canvassed and the returns made in all but two counties, New York and Kings. The official returns for the two counties mentioned will not differ to any extent from the figures already published.

The total vote for President was 1,279,[illegible]; total vote for Governor 1,270,887. Cleveland's vote was 632,943; Harrison's vote was 648,759. Hill's vote was [illegible]; Miller's vote was [illegible]. Governor Hill leads all the principal candidates. He received [illegible] more votes than Harrison and 10,707 more than Miller. He had 44,411 votes less than Miller outside of New York and Kings counties, his total vote outside of the two counties mentioned being 398,140. Miller had a total of 442,[illegible] in the same localities.

The combined vote of New York and Kings counties was, Hill 249,[illegible], Cleveland 242,314, Miller 177,[illegible], Harrison 173,409. This shows that Hill led Cleveland [illegible], Miller 71,[illegible] and Harrison 71,[illegible]. Harrison comes second on the total vote, receiving 13,[illegible] more than Cleveland and 10,651 more than Miller. Cleveland received 632,[illegible] votes. Miller stands at the foot of the list with a total vote of [illegible]. Outside of New York and Kings counties Harrison received 473,[illegible] and Cleveland followed with 390,000. This gives Harrison a plurality of 83,700 outside of the two counties mentioned. Cleveland's plurality in New York and Kings county was [illegible]. This leaves 13,[illegible] as Harrison's plurality in the state.

STRIKING ITALIANS.

More Trouble on the New Hampshire and Canada Line

West Stewartstown, N H Nov 17 One hundred and fifty Italians engaged in the construction of the Hereford Railroad after being paid off quit work and compelled others to do so and then they cut away a trestle bridge in the vicinity and detained two engines near the terminus of the line. This action was caused by their dissatisfaction at not being paid for last September's work, the failure of which on the part of the Hereford Company was caused by dishonest contractors. The [illegible] Magistrate visited the strikers and read the riot act, following which the strikers resumed work and ceased all violence.

[illegible] a party of Italians opened fire on a gang of eight workmen and had their fire promptly returned. Quite a melee ensued in which the orderly workmen were the winners. Two Italians were severely wounded. A posse of officers is on the spot and comparative quiet exists.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Lord Randolph Churchill on West

London, Nov 17 Lord Randolph Churchill, in a speech at Paddington to-day expressed the hope that the post of Minister at Washington would soon be filled. He said there was no doubt that Lord Sackville had been primarily indiscreet and had made an inexcusable blunder. No fault could be found with the action of the United States Government toward the Minister. The American people were essentially just and proud in their relations with other countries. He deprecated the insulting and menacing articles which had appeared in the English press since Lord Sackville's dismissal and said that Englishmen ought to inform the Americans that they cherish no ill feelings towards them

One day last week as Messrs John Sibley, Jr and Isaac White were yarding knees at Passadumkeag, within a short distance of the main road, they discovered a soap box containing the body of an infant badly decomposed. The body was bound in the box and covered with lime. The authorities were notified of the matter and are trying to discover who committed the terrible crime, but as yet they have no clue.

At the special meeting of the City Council last week, an order introduced by Councilman Tracy was passed for the City Solicitor to see whether the Electric Railway Company has complied with the terms of its charter, the object of the inquiry being particularly in reference to its having completed the road within the time specified, and as to whether the streets have been kept in good condition where the track has been laid down.

Deacon John B. Woodbury, an old and esteemed resident of Dover died in that town on the 3d instant at the advanced age of seventy-three years. He was born in Durham in 1815, and removed with his father to Dover, at the age of ten years, and has since resided there, where he followed the occupation of a farmer and was a prominent member and deacon of the Free Baptist church. His wife and six children, two sons and four daughters, survive him. He was a brother of James Woodbury, Esq. of this city.

An entertainment will be given in the Central church vestry next Friday evening under the auspices of the Willing Workers [illegible], and a very pleasant programme is being arranged for the occasion. The participants will be Mrs Potter, Miss Leavitt, Mr Morton and the [illegible] Quartette. Mrs Potter will sing a selection to which a violin obligato will be played by Mr Oscar Wasgatt, and Miss Leavitt will render a selection with a cornet obligato by Mr E C Adams. The concert will doubtless be largely attended

Y. M. C. A. Building Fund. How it grows. Since our Saturday's issue $400 more has been added to the Y. M. C. A. building fund. This time it was one of our young business men who is always doing the right thing at the right time. He had pledged $100 previously but unsolicited raised it Saturday to $500. No one is more familiar with the work or appreciates its value more highly than does the gentleman referred to. He shows his appreciation in this substantial way. It remains for some of our citizens to say what we shall report to-morrow

Horse Breeding. Waldo county is coming to the front with an organization for promoting the interests of horse breeding. Already a preliminary meeting has been held and a general meeting has been called to meet at the court house in Belfast on Saturday, Nov 24, at 1 o'clock p m for the purpose of organizing an Association whose object shall be the promotion of the interests of horse breeding and the development of the best types of the carriage and light harness horse. The committee of organization consists of such well known names as Hon C. [illegible], A J [illegible], E M [illegible], B [illegible] and Isaac Park

An unexpected and blustering sort of snow squall held high carnival for a few minutes Saturday afternoon. Up to four o'clock the day had been very pleasant, although cool, and it looked as though the record of consecutive stormy Saturdays, the Saturday before being the twenty-ninth would be broken. For a short time the snow came down quite briskly and was blown about by a strong wind, but it soon cleared off again very pleasantly. There was a change for the colder in the atmosphere, and furs made their appearance upon the streets in the evening. The weather yesterday was clear and cool.

An important circular is to be issued at an early date by the State School Department and State Board of Health jointly, for the purpose of obtaining information touching the hygienic condition of the school houses of the State. The teachers in the various towns are to report, the circulars are to be forwarded to them through the Superintendent of Schools or School Committee. The observations are to be made chiefly during the spring and summer terms, and will principally be concerning ventilation, plans of seats, drainage and surroundings. The reports will be compiled and embodied in the reports of the two departments Business Brisk at Guilford. A correspondent writes. The Piscataquis Woolen Company are building a few very large wood sheds along the side of the Bangor and Piscataquis track. They are running their mills till 9 o'clock there is such a rush for their goods. They ship them every day by express to Boston or New York. They do not think they can fill their orders before the season closes and the orders are still coming in for both fall and spring goods. They use nothing but best of wool in their goods.—Everything else in our village seems to be on the move and all are perfectly happy since Harrison has been elected.

Handy with the Pistol. A man who gives his name as William Brown, and his native place, Kenduskeag, is now confined at the police station awaiting examination, which will take place to-day, for some shooting on Wednesday. While walking on the railroad track above the [illegible] railroad bridge, he met Michael Higgins, of this city, and another man, and they had some conversation. Suddenly Brown drew a revolver and commenced to shoot at the other two. They quickly grabbed him and stopped his shooting. They allowed him to depart, and he disappeared, but on Friday he was found and arrested by officer [illegible]. He is evidently of the [illegible], and of a somewhat queer turn of mind. Among his effects is a note book with pen and ink specimens and prices for India ink drawing, of which art Mr. Brown is evidently a devotee.

Bible Day Concert. The Bible Day concert at the First Baptist church last evening was well attended and the exercises proved interesting and appropriate to the occasion. An attractive feature in the church was a light house made of three hundred Bibles. The following was the programme: Organ voluntary; responsive introduction, pastor and congregation; silent prayer; Scripture selection, pastor; anthem, choir; "Bible Day" exercise; hymn, congregation; prayer, pastor; hymn, school; exercise, "Names of the Bible," superintendent and school; exercise, "Why I Believe the Bible," young men's [illegible] class exercise; [illegible] of the Bible, superintendent and classes; hymn, congregation; recitation, "How Sweet is the Bible," [illegible] of Bible work, read by the pastor; hymn, school; Scripture selection, superintendent and class; offerings, by classes, each giving a text; [illegible]

The steamer Rhoda, Capt True, arrived in this port yesterday from Belfast with the Curtis Comedy Company, which begins a week's engagement at Norombega Hall this evening.

A curious coincidence occurred at the Adjutant General's office Friday. Capt. Clark, in making up the rolls of the Seventh Maine Regiment, was compiling the war record of Private Hiram K. [illegible], when the afternoon mail arrived. Strangely enough the first letter which he opened happened to be from this same [illegible], who stated that in making application for a pension he needed a copy of the very record which Capt. Clark was transcribing.

The eighth annual ball and reception of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of this city will occur in Society Hall next Thursday evening, and the occasion will be made a very pleasant and attractive one. The hall will be handsomely decorated and arranged for the occasion. An entertainment consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings, recitations, etc., will be given, and this will be followed by dancing. Refreshments will be served during the evening. A competent committee has the affair in charge.

Thanksgiving Coffee Party. The young people who come home for their Thanksgiving vacation from business or study [illegible], will be pleased to have an opportunity offered them Thanksgiving eve, Wednesday, to "trip the merry measure" at a coffee party to be given by the ladies of the Episcopal church. An elaborate supper on the European plan will be served at six o'clock when housekeepers weary with their labors of preparing for the family merry making on Thursday can find rest and relief by patronizing these ladies, whose suppers are proverbial for their delicacy and [illegible]. Dancing will follow, which, with the good music that will be provided will induce the elders to view from the gallery the happy participants and perchance will tempt them to join in tripping the light fantastic toe.

Bodwell Water Power Company. The Bodwell Water Power Company held a meeting at the Common Council Room Saturday forenoon to consider the matter of rebuilding the mill at Milford destroyed by fire a short time ago. There was a good attendance and the stock was largely represented. E B Thatcher Esq., in behalf of the special committee to which was submitted the duty of examining the situation for rebuilding the mills, reported that the coffer dam not being done it was impossible at present to ascertain the exact condition of the wheel pits and bulkheads. This dam will probably be completed this week and the water be entirely shut off. No formal action was taken concerning the rebuilding of the mills but a committee on ways and means was appointed, and the committee on construction was enlarged by the addition of several gentlemen. The meeting was then adjourned to two weeks from Saturday. The Insurance Adjusters Macomber and [illegible] have completed their work and some of the companies in which the mills were insured have already settled the amount of their policies.

Bowdoin College Notes. H C Hill of the class of '90 has just completed a successful term of teaching in Pembroke High school. He will remain in Brunswick for a day or two.—The annual convention of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity will be held at New York this week. The Bowdoin chapter will be represented by W P [illegible] and H C Hill, of '90 and F M Russell and J R Clark, of '89.—There is a movement on foot in the two upper classes to establish an inter-society debating club. There will probably be about thirty members elected from the juniors and seniors. Such a move would do much toward [illegible].—One of the advantages of the [illegible] at Bowdoin [illegible] year in the advance lessons in German and French. The way for the introduction of modern languages to the place of the classics, while in no way affecting the old classical and long approved classical course has served to make the demand for the living languages greater. The old course of one year in each was inadequate to [illegible] the demand of the age of specialties. Prof Bowen has charge of the French classes and Prof Johnson continues with the German.

Anniversary Exercises. The forty-first anniversary of the Central church Sunday school was observed last evening in the church and there was a very large attendance, many being unable to obtain admission to the church edifice. The exercises were well arranged and interesting to the large assemblage. The following was the programme: Voluntary, Mrs Jewell; song, "Again the Rounded Year," school; Scripture reading and responses, superintendent and school; selection, "The Earth is the Lord's," choir; prayer, Rev H L Griffin; solo, Mr W A Palmer; Secretary's report, showing the average attendance to have been 184, contributions, $428.25. Five members of the school have become connected with the church, and there has been one death, that of Mr [illegible] Sewall. Mr. Blake made some very feeling and appropriate remarks concerning Mr Sewall; reading, "The Master and the Reapers," Miss Edith Drummond; solo, "Glory to Thee, My God, this Night," Mr Asa Morton; address, Rev Mr Root, of Auburn; duet, "Hark, Hark, My Soul," Miss Leavitt and Miss Morley; singing, school; "Coronation," congregation; benediction, Rev Mr. Griffin; postlude, Mrs. Jewell. The exercises were very attractive and the singing was excellent and much enjoyed. The address of Rev. Mr. Root was a source of much profit and interest to all who had the pleasure of listening to it.

Editor of the Whig and Courier

A meeting was announced at the several churches yesterday which ought to have and doubtless will have great interest for the good people of our city. I refer to the meeting which is to be held in the Central church on Thursday evening in the interest of Indian and negro education. The distinguished principal of Hampton Institute, Gen. Armstrong, will be present, together with two Indians and four negro pupils of the school, who will do a large part of the speaking and all the singing. The Hampton School is an entirely unsectarian institution partly supported by the government, but mainly by the liberality of the good people of the North. The meeting is held in a church simply to avoid the expense of a public hall.

In a letter received to-day from one of the favorite teachers of the institution, Miss [illegible], well known in our city, she says: "I earnestly hope that the meeting to be held by Gen. Armstrong in Bangor will be well attended and successful. The people of your city are always ready for a good work, but Hampton is so far removed from them it is not strange that they do not know much about it and are not [illegible] interested in it. I only [illegible] doing done. There are some 600 students, Indians and negroes, being instructed not only in the various branches of knowledge but in all useful work and art. For the boys carpenter shops, blacksmiths, shoemakers, harness makers, coopers and tin workers. For the girls, sewing rooms, tailoring departments, millinery rooms and laundries, to say nothing of the printing office, and all make of Hampton a very busy place for the hands as well as the head. By these means and by teaching in the winter most of the students earn enough to pay for their board, while the tuition has to be paid for by the generosity of the North. It would be a very pleasant thing for some of our Sunday schools to support a scholarship, thus not only doing good, but being brought into correspondence and pleasant relations with some Indian or negro youths.

I am in frequent receipt of letters from students who are teaching and who [illegible] look out also for Sunday schools, temperance, and the moral interests of their people generally. When one considers how large a part of the population are negroes and how much they need improving influences we can see how great the need is for an institution like Hampton, which provides for them educated and Christian teachers. I received a letter this morning from one of our graduates who says that in the county where he is laboring there are in all twenty-one schools and all but one taught by negroes. He adds that the people of that district are constantly growing in their interest in schools and in temperance. 'There is not a saloon or a bar room among us.' The general report of our teachers is that with all their difficulties and drawbacks the colored population are steadily improving. I wish it were in my power to do or say something to awaken an interest in this great work among the good people of Bangor.

We unite in the hope expressed by Miss [illegible] that there will be a large audience next Thursday evening to see and hear the Indian and negro pupils who will represent this famous school. There will be no admittance fee. The object of the meeting is not to raise funds but to extend a knowledge of the Institute and to awaken an interest for Indian and negro education, but in order to meet the expenses of the company a contribution will be taken up at the close of the exercises.

THE C. P. RAILROAD ACCIDENT

Coroner's Inquest—No Blame Attached to the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company or its Employes

The inquest over the body of Daniel Walker who was killed in the accident on the Canadian Pacific Road on Friday, was held that afternoon at Mattawamkeag, and all the evidence obtainable heard. In the case, Coroner [illegible] W. Whitney of this city was summoned there and empanelled the following jury: [illegible]

W. S. [illegible] testified as follows: Am a civil engineer on the Canadian Pacific Railroad and have been connected with the road for over ten years. [illegible]

[illegible]

John Ilsworth testified that he had been at work on the steam shovel and was riding on the front of the engine with the deceased. Had never ridden there before.

C. F. Bates testified as follows: Am the conductor of the train. The accident happened about 6 30 a. m. The engineer had shut off steam to pass through a cut, and had just turned it on again when the accident occurred. The speed of the train was between six and eight miles per hour. The deceased was sitting on the head of the engine, and two other men were on the box with him. The engine left the iron, the coupling was broken and the flat car ran against the head of the engine carrying the man with it, breaking the smoke arch and jamming the man into it. Engineer Ames is an old engineer and I consider him a careful one.

Charles G. Ames testified that he was the engineer on the train that left the track. The train was running at a rate of not more than eight miles per hour. He could assign no particular cause for the cars leaving the rails, as to all appearances the track was in as good condition as usual. The coupling bar broke letting the cars run into the front of the engine, crushing the deceased between the car and engine. Fireman W. [illegible] and [illegible] were in the engine at the time.

After the evidence had been heard the jury deliberated and then rendered the following verdict: "That the said Daniel Walker came to his death by being crushed between car and an engine on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, on Nov 16th, 1888, at about 6 30 a. m. No blame is attached to the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company or any of its employes."

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier

I read (with some amusement and sufficient indignation to reply) in your issue of the 16th, the report of proceedings at the Penobscot Medical Association, in which was recorded the remarks made by Dr. Phillips, of [illegible]. He made the wild statement that only about half a dozen men practice the real homeopathy in Maine. What does he mean by "the real homeopathy"? Does he know what homeopathy is? I doubt it. [illegible] knowing what real homeopathy is would think it possible to eradicate it from the public. Another point I wish to impress on the Doctor's mind is that we never call in an allopath or old school physician when an homeopath is available. There is no reason why both schools should not [illegible] but a few who [illegible] past fifty years have been fruitful in proving practical in the extreme. Now my quasi friend let me give you a little professional advice: take a less public way to vent your spleen or else put yourself under treatment (good wholesome homeopathic treatment) for hypertrophy of the spleen. For we are here determined to fight disease, benefit mankind and elevate the science of medicine to higher and broader [illegible] and not to exterminate some one who happens to differ with us in opinion. Such old fashioned notions as Dr. Phillips promulgated always makes me think of [illegible]
